POSITION AS TO BORDEN PARK IS MADE CLEAR

Members of Exhibition Association Take Strong Exception to Criticism Made

At the meeting of the exhibition association held Friday afternoon in the association rooms, strong exception was taken to some of the statements that are being published and which are being circulated on the streets as to their position in regard to the grounds known as Borden Park. It was claimed by the board that since the whole of the purchase price of

of the 148 acres that forms the exhibition grounds, are charged upon the city. It is sufficient proof that the city is the owner of the land, that property belonged to the exhibition board. In further proof it was shown that A. A. C. is the commissioner of parks and markets, from the fact that the city is the owner of the exhibition association when any improvements were contemplated on the grounds. The board was charged with the idea that he did not wish to be charged with the responsibility of not being fully in accord with the views of the directors of the association.

It was further shown that the capital was being made of the fact that the park was being taken away from the city and that the city was not to the intentions of the association. The city was charged with the fact that modern devices for making it a real asset to the city in the way of an

During the one week of the exhibition that was held at the fair, the amount of free access by the public, while on the whole, was not very large, but the people are found most attractive would be added to the equipment already there. The fair is now open to the public and is so popular in the big cities.

It is the intention of the fair to be held in the city of New York, and the fair is now open to the public in the absence of W. J. Carter.

Directors present were: J. L. McIntosh, president; Chas. E. Benson, A. B. Williams, Chas. W. Day, W. J. Carter, John Kennedy, D. Bush, Arthur J. Williams, J. L. McIntosh, W. J. Carter, W. Frever, F. C. Chase, W. C. McArthur and J. L. McIntosh.

ATTRACTIONSWINTER SEASON AT EMPRESS BRINGS NATIONAL STARS WITH FINEST OF SCREEN SHOWINGS

The best picture the Empress theatre has ever had are announced for its 1919 policy. The enforced closing through the epidemic has allowed the management to greatly extend its bookings to a point where the theatre was maintained its reputation of always having a good show. The theatre had been already booked for the winter season, and this opportunity is taken to announce some of the releases and stars that will come next year.

The Empress owns the franchise for the Dominion for all the features released by the First National Exhibitors Circuit, coupled the strongest organization ever assembled in America, controlled on a co-operative basis by leading theatre owners. The circuit makes no picture, but they do control for the product of the greatest stars in the film world, and keep on the open market the finest features that are offered.

The circuit is paying Charles Chaplin $1,000,000 for his pictures, and has just signed a contract with Mary Pickford for an even greater sum, so that the latter star will be enjoyed at the Empress in the near future. Another big favorite comes under the "First National" banner is Anita Stewart who has such a big following under Vitaphone. She has retired from the picture business, but is tempting offer brought her back.

William Farnum and Theda Bara have always been big favorites in Edmonton, and the latter will open the winter season with her own story "The Road of India," while the former will be seen for three days starting Monday.

MARY PICKFORD
CONTRACTS WITH FIRST NATIONAL

Great Star Will Get $1,500,000
For Six Pictures Which
Come to Empress

The much-discussed question of Mary Pickford's new affiliation was definitely settled at the Hotel Knickerbocker, New York, recently, when she signed a contract with the First National Exhibitors Circuit to make pictures for them for one year.

The First National, as well as several other concerns anxious to secure Little Mary's services, has been negotiating for some time with the prominent star. The circuit, which has its headquarters in New York city, is controlled by thirty of the leading exhibitors of the United States, with branches in Canada, the Empire theatre holding the franchise for Edmonton. Miss Pickford will be paid $1,500,000 for six pictures.

Under Miss Pickford's recent contract with Artcraft she was to receive $1,500,000, or $100,000 a week for six weeks, $150,000 bonus and $40,000 for four weeks' services while working over summer holidays. She has already received a sum of $100,000 for her first picture, "Daddy Long Legs," and $150,000 for her second, "The Sign of the Cross."

Transporting instruments are those for which the music is written in one key while the instrument sounds another key. In our hands there are the following transposing instruments: D flat piccolo, B flat and B flat clarinet, B flat and B flat saxophones, B flat and B flat cornets or trumpets and the B flat or B horn. The baritone, the trombone and the B flat bass are also treated as transposing instruments when reading their music. The trouble of old notation, but when reading in the bass or B flat notation they are non-transposing, producing the actual effect of the indicated notation.

THE YELLOW TICKET, WITH FANNIE WARD IN STELLAR ROLE,
RE-OPENS MAJESTY ON MONDAY

Popular West End Theatre Has Been Thoroughly Housecleaned and Manager Itself Has Provided Splendid Opening Program

That popular theatre, the Majesty, has been renovated and thoroughly housecleaned for its re-opening on Monday when "The Yellow Ticket," with Fannie Ward, the Paris star, in the leading role, will be the attraction. "The Yellow Ticket" will be shown for the first three days of the week and Manager Itself wishes to announce that his splendid orchestra has remained intact throughout the long lay-off and has a number of new selections ready for Monday's opening.

The story of "The Yellow Ticket" deals with Anna Merck, a beautiful young girl who is a Jewess, but through some trick of fate does not betray it in her remarkable facial attributes. Because she is a Jewess she is refused a passport by the czar's administration when she applies for one, so that she can visit her father, who has been seriously injured in Petrograd, when he has been run over by Baron Andrey's sleigh.

The insulting agent of the secret police offers her $5,000 to sign a badge of shame, and offering them to her private secretary, she is taken to town without further passports. It is her only means of reaching her father and she takes it. In an amazing series of events Anna Merck falls into the power of Baron Andrey and in self-defence kills him, bringing the story to a climax which is gripping in its intensity, and which leads to the very end with a dramatic twist in the last scene.

Headed by the noted screen actress, Fannie Ward, the all-star cast includes such famous actors as Milton Gill, Warner Oland, Armand Kellias, B. B. Gille, and the late Harry Chase, Charles and Nicholas Duncan and others. No greater cast of screen film stars has been assembled in the last season.

The stage version of "The Yellow Ticket" swept New York and Chicago by storm, and it ran for four hundred nights in the former city alone, and three hundred in the latter, which approaches a record for long runs.

The attraction for the last half of the week will be Ruth Clifford in "Fires of Youth," together with the Universal Weekly and the English Gazette.

MOUNTED POLICE PLAY IMPORTANT PART IN 'HEARTS OF THE WILD,'
WITH MISS FERGUSON AT MONARCH

New Artcraft Photoplay Shows Scenes of Great Familiarity to Many Edmontonians—Will be the Attraction on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday

Feats of horsemanship unequalled in daring are conspicuously shown in "Hearts of the Wild," the new Artcraft photoplay starring Zina Ferguson which is to be presented at the Monarch theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Miss Ferguson shares dare-devil riding honors with Matt Moore, who plays the role of her brother in the photoplay, and who seeks to escape the Mounted Police after slaying an Indian for making an insulting remark about his sister. In a dramatic scene the sister is riding down a shale cliff, the side of which was almost perpendicular. Unusually a dummy is employed for such perilous feats, but Mr. Moore declined to employ a paper mache substitute, so he made the attempt. Fortunately, he met with no mishap, but the spectators were on tenterhooks during the ordeal. Director Neilan and the specialists were on tenterhooks when the dare-devil riding honors were shared without being unseated, a feat that many a practiced horseman might have been excused from performing.

The story of "Hearts of the Wild" is a dramatic tale of the life of a young man who is filled with thrill and effective heart appeal. Thomas Melgan appears as the villain.

Britain Day in the United States

Britannia for the first time will have in a poster to be widely circulated in America. Carlton Moorepark, an English artist, who has given the full four years of war service to the cause of Great Britain and Canada, has just put the finishing touches to a typical British poster which will be distributed by the New York Committee having in charge America's tribute to Britain, December 7, 1918. The British Lions and its cub, representing the colonies, will be striking figures in the poster, of which a first edition of 30,000 is to be distributed shortly throughout the country. The Honorary Chairman of the Committee, whose headquarters are at the Hotel Belmont, New York City, is Dr. Charles E. Rife, of Harvard, and the Chairman is Judge Alton B. Parker. Strong committees are being organized throughout the country, and the outlook is that a very strong showing will be made as to the esteem in which America holds the part which Great Britain has borne in the war for the protection of this country against the murderous Hun.

Near eight millions of men given to the allied cause means that if the United States ever were to equal Britain's contribution in men to the present time, the American Republic would have nearly sixteen million soldiers in khaki.

Last July the French nation was honored on Bastille Day, and now it is the turn of Great Britain, which has so long been misunderstood and inadequately appreciated by the average American, but which now is coming into its own, from the respect and admiration which have resulted from the bulldog grip which they fastened upon the Germans more than four years ago, and have held it steadily ever since.

The mayor of every city having a population of 5,000 and upward has been invited to join this nation-wide demonstration of American friendship for the British nation and people. Public meetings are being organized in many places, and band concerts and other special entertainment features will be given, made up in considerable part of British airs.

Western Canada on Eve of Great Things.

(By W. O. Chiles)

The West may confidently count on big things—big things in industrial development. Death and taxes are always considered sure, but to these another certainty may be added, and that is—Canada will come fully into her own within the next 25 years. The spring should see the West beginning to take another big stride forward.

These policies may hamper development, but they cannot altogether reach it. The natural resources of the Dominion alone ensure a wonderful development; but to these must be added a thoroughly awakened and aggressive people, industrially who, through the experience of the last four years are fully persuaded that today there is no problem in national development that they cannot solve. From this the West has much to gain because it has much to offer. The prairies may confidently count on big things, because they produce largely some of the products that Europe will need very badly for the next few years. These are grain, oil and live stock products. The prairies will also secure a heavy immigration during the next decade and no argument is required to convince the average Western man what this means. They will get far more return than any other portion of the Dominion because they have more to offer. Hence, the prairie country is undoubtedly due for another period of rapid railway extension. Under these conditions the West cannot help but go ahead rapidly.

The immediate future of grain growing is undoubtedly bright, for hungry Europe must be fed and the food must come chiefly from America. But no one can tell how long anything like the present level of grain prices will be maintained. At this date they seem to be fairly well assured for well on to another year. With the resumption of ocean transportation on anything like a pre-war basis, India, the Argentine and Australia would be considerable to relieve the existing wheat scarcity in Europe; but outside of America, the hope of bringing food reserves up to anything like their size before the war rests largely on Russia. And who can tell what Russia will do? No one. As for France and Germany, it will take four or five years to bring their lands back to a pre-war state of production.

Live Stock and Dairy Industries.
The future of the live stock and dairy industries on the prairie looks extremely bright. The herds of Europe have been greatly depleted and cannot soon be replaced, for it takes from two to three times as long to produce cattle as it does grain. And from this the rapid growth of urban populations the world over is bound to keep up meat prices. Even now the rapid growth of the dairy industry in the prairie provinces causes surprise. So the future of live stock production in the West is assured for years to come.

In the marketing of products the public must be prepared for change. Producers will not for some time market as individuals as they did before the war, but they will do so as a nation. The foregoing has to do with the increase of wealth through production alone; but those familiar with western conditions from 1890 to 1913 know that immigration of their kind rapidly to the wealth of a country. Another such tide of immigration is bound to set in towards Western Canada just as quickly as it did before the war. Thousands will come from the British Isles and thousands more from the United States. Other thousands will come from Southern Canada. It will be difficult to content Eastern Canadian boys, who have been a couple of years over seas. With the farm life of the old provinces. A large proportion of them will turn their faces to the stirring Western country.

The indications are that these new settlers will, in dollars and cents, be worth a great deal more than was the generality of those who arrived in the old homesteading days. Outside of the returned soldiers, they will have to be better off or they will be unable to get land and start farming operations. Those who come from the south especially will be very well fixed. It is also remembered that south of the international boundary a surplus of population has been accumulating for three or four years and will find an outlet on the Canadian prairie, because there is no other country half so good to go to.

A lot of half-bred competition Every Westerner knows what railroad transportation means to the country. Well, there is a lot of it ahead of the West. The Canadian Northern and C.P.R. could easily spend $200,000 or $300,000 on the line and they will not go wanting money as they have done in the past. The C.N.R. today is prepared to lay steel rails on service roads and on lines of graded line, and for the greater part of this it will be paid for. Watch also the C.P.R. lining the coast. It is long to the West. Its financial position is almost solidly based on the fact that it has new work all it has to do is to get the management of which more youth and energy was introduced and show that the old company is straggled to the west for the race that it knows to be coming. Depend upon it, the C.P.R. will set a lively pace. Hence a man with big view Grant Hall is just the man for the big western country. The opportunities that lie before Western Canada are great; what those who direct its life should see to it that the progress of development is assured. The old element of uncertainty should be eliminated as far as possible. For this reason it would seem advisable for the West to advocate guaranteed wheat prices. This does not necessarily mean that present prices should be insisted on; but in view of the uncertainty of the future, it is only reasonable to ask that the grain grower be assured, for a given time, a fair price for his product. Anything that may be done in this respect can only be the result of joint action among the Allies, but it would be well for the West to express itself so that those who represent Canada at the inter-allied trade conferences should know what the opinion of the great grain sections of the Dominion is on the subject.

The brightness of the future before Western Canada should not be permitted to give rise to the wild speculative and gambling conditions that existed before the war. These can but result in loss. Orderly, permanent development is required. That another period of wonderful development lies before the country west of the Great Lakes is as certain as that the sun will rise tomorrow. This applies to British Columbia, quite as well as to Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta; for it takes three decades the first must prosper. It applies also to the eastern provinces.

Geddes Tells of Deeds of "Mystery Ships"

British "Q" Boats Were Decoys to Trap Submarines

Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, writing in Answers London, says he is going to tell a story of the war which has never been told before, a story of the British navy, which has never been told by anyone before because it concerned a time of war which was very effective. The story is about the Mystery Vtoric Cross and our "Q" boats, or "mystery ships." I will tell you what a "mystery ship" is. It is a decoy on the waves of the deep, a decoy for use in modern warfare and known in the service as a "Q" ship.

She may be an old wind-jammer, sailing ship, tramp, or a collier, but she is something more than that. In the admiralty records she is known and registered as the "Q-10."

Her real name might be the "Mary Blunt" or something of that kind, a merchantman which in a few seconds can be turned into a formidable man-of-war.

The ship I am going to tell you about was in all appearance, a dingy old collier. She sailed under sealed orders, which informed her captain that German submarines were making British and American vessels in such and such a position, and ordered him to proceed to the spot forthwith.

As I have said, she sailed looking like a collier, with a crew that looked like a merchant crew, and the captain was a fair, unadorned man in the whole, and yet beneath the broad buttons of the royal navy, there were the faint outlines of a man of war. The captain and officers were the clothes of our bluejackets, a captain and officers of a British warship. Let us look into the captain's bunk, and we see the cap of the royal navy and the jacket with the broad buttons of the royal navy. The ship's title appears in the case of the other officers' bunks, and also of the quarters of the men. The "Q-10" also carried a white ensign and had a little gun mounted on her stern.

The Chase
It was summer morning, a hot breeze blowing, and the "Q-10" steamed out into the Atlantic to the spot indicated in the captain's orders. About two hours passed by when on the starboard bow an enemy submarine was sighted and the "collier" turned to run away, as she did so commencing her ruse of disguise and putting on steam, until she raced along at the rate of eight knots, amid volumes of thick black smoke.

The submarine was diving. Meanwhile the "Q-10" fired her little stern gun intentionally shot. Soon the submarine began to overhaul the "Q-10" and began shelling. Some of the shells were now dropping on the deck. Hands were being killed and wounded. The "Q-10" kept steadily on, and then gradually slackened speed, first to seven and then down to six knots. She then made a slight turn to starboard, the submarine following her, and kept on her course. The submarine shell on the "Q-10" was now firing. And still another and final, "Am about to abandon ship. Help! Help!"

Nodes to Boats
The captain of the U-boat by this time began to think he was being preyed. He watched panic take place among the "collier's" crew, and a party leave her in a small boat. A very few undisciplined lot of fellows they were, these "merchants." Then still a few more left the ship, one taking with him a pet parrot.

Just then a shell from the U-boat struck the poop of the "Q-10," blowing up the little gun and the gun crew. Other shells hit her. The poop was on fire.

The captain, who remained on board secreted with other members of the crew, knew that as the fire approached it, the magazine would explode. They stuck to their posts.

U-boat Led On
Again at this time more of the men leaped overboard, trusting to make it be picked up by the small boat. At last! The U-boat now came very slowly, but the smoke from the burning poop now interfered with the range of "Q-10's" guns—the real guns. Shells again fell about the ship. This time an explosion took place. The "Q-10's" aft gun, together with the plucky gun crew, were blown up and then, left all the fire and roared the magazine. A terrific explosion took place and the second aft gun went hurtling through the air. This was indeed a misfortune, the captain wrote in his report, "as the submarine had only to steer another 20 yards and I should have had three guns bearing on her at 400 yards' range."

The "Q-10" by this time was blazing and smoking. The stern was ragged with fire. It was quite clear now that the submarine knew that she was a "Q" ship, and quickly submerging first torpedo after torpedo.

The captain instantly gave the order, "Abandon ship!" And he himself, again scrambling over the side into the water, getting onto a raft as best they could.

Get Results at Last
Lead explosions were taking place as the fire spread, but the U-boat, which had come up again, was still suspicious that there were more men on board, so again more of the crew of the "Q-10" took to the water, and then the enemy came on nearer toward the "Q-10." She got far ahead. In a flash the farthest gun was immolated. Shell after shell was hurled, time took away with it the U-boat coming lower, another hit her broadside. She was gone, like many of her kind.

The fight lasted from 11 in the morning till 4 in the afternoon. The ships "lying in wait" behind the horizon picked up the crew of the "Q-10," which had done its work, and was abandoned in the grip of fire, ammunition exploding.

The enemy now knew of this ruse, and there is no need for further secrecy, but my friend and colleague, Admiral Sims, and I have more ways than that which we employed to trap submarines.

This story is a record of but one of numerous fights with the enemy that took place day after day in the routine of our military life. Above these decoy ships—watchdogs of the sea.

EDMONTON'S PROGRESSIVE JEWELERS

One of the most progressive firms in the city that deserves special mention at this time is H. B. Ellis & Sons, Limited, "The Premier Jewellers." Several years ago Mr. Ellis started in a small way a jewelry store near where the Merchants Bank now stands. Outgrowing this store, he was moved to more commodious premises on the corner of Jasper and 103rd street, where the same thing was repeated. Recently growing, he was forced to take his own into partnership and have the firm incorporated, and now with the trend of business going to the center of the city and present quarters inadequate the firm is moving to the new Allen theatre block, which is now being fitted out in most up-to-date manner, splendid new fixtures and the finest of tools and equipment for repairing of watches and manufacturing jewelry, etc., and an immense stock of the latest in the jewelry art, which makes the institution really as its slogan, "The Premier Jewellers." Grand opening will be announced through the advertising columns of this paper at a later date.

Speaking of their work before a gathering of organizers, one of the speakers said that the quartette choir had done more to raise church music than any other agency.

Come, Let Mother Seel

When the child droops, won't play or is restless, pale and grumpy, look to see if the tongue is white, the breath feverish, the stomach sour. Then hurry, mother, but don't worry! Give Cascarets, the harmless candy cathartic. Children take Cascarets without coaxing—only 10 cents a box!

TO MOTHERS! Nothing else "wonts" the nasty bile, the sour fermentations and constipation poison so gently but so thoroughly from the little stomach, liver and bowels like harmless Cascarets. While children usually fight against laxatives and cathartics, they gladly eat a candy Cascaret. Cascarets never gripe the bowels, never sicken, never disappoint the worried mother. CASE NOT SETTLED BY COMMUTATION MOONEY'S SENTENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.—"Communion of the death sentence of Thomas J. Mooney by Governor Stephens of California does not in any way settle the case from the viewpoint of organized labor, says a statement issued today by Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, taking the position that charges of perjury in connection with the conviction make some trial inevitable."

PRESIDENT BAN JOHNSON GOES FOR FRAZEE, HAMPSTEAD

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—When Harry F. Frazee, president of the Boston Americans and H. H. Hampstead, president of the New York Yankees, offered William H. Taft the post of a "one man national baseball commission," they acted without proper authority. President Taft, chief of the American League, declared in a statement today on his return from the east.

President Johnson said: "There are no two individuals in baseball who know less of the national agreement and the rules governing the commission than Messrs. Hampstead and Frazee."

While the American League executive did not indicate that he would oppose the selection of ex-President Taft, he asserted that when Mr. Taft thoroughly understands the duties he did not believe he "would cover the assignment."

Mr. Taft would like but the wing of a penitentiary to bring the public golf case back into favor.

WORLD PASSING THROUGH CRISIS, SAYS FINANCIER

Sir Herbert Holt Declares Careful Handling Alone Can Avoid Peril in Canada

MONTREAL, Nov. 29.—"The whole world is passing through a grave economic crisis, and it is no exaggeration to say that unless the situation in Canada is handled with care and delicacy, not by politicians but by men of vision, a problem will be presented which will be full of peril."

Sir Herbert Holt made the foregoing remarks in an interview Thursday on the present situation due to the war construction period.

"The government," said Sir Herbert, "has a severe duty in this most important matter, that is, to secure policies and take hold of the situation with ability, with high purpose, with the sole thought of harmonizing all legitimate interests. Now, our boys are about to come back."

"The business of the government is to handle this big thing itself. That is to say that it must not delegate the handling of our boys who have fought for us, to interested parties. The government must look after the soldiers; they must find vocations; they must place them advantageously."

Every woman has a heart like the valour leader of the "Blue Devils," writes a journalist at a fashionable autumn resort across the times.

EXPEDITION WILL GO TO SIBERIA

Troops in Canada Leave Soon to Join the Advance Party

OTTAWA, Nov. 29.—The Canadian expedition to Siberia is going forward to its destination. The government has so decided, and instructions to that effect will go out. Since the armistice has been signed, there have been doubts as to its effect upon the expedition, and collaboration with the war office have been exchanged. In the strength of the advice, which have been received the force still remaining in Canada will be described as soon as possible to join the advance party already there and another section now en route. Certain conditions will apply, however. Any member of the force who wishes to return will be free to do so at the expiration of a year from the signing of the armistice.

(By Howard R. Garie)

"Oh, dear!" sighed the voice. "Here I am, left all alone, with no one to care for me! Oh, how unhappy I am! I never knew that what is to be lonely was like this!"

"What was that to be lonely?" asked Uncle Wiggily.
